Are you searching for the 2024 BMW i5 M60 xDrive price, review, top speed, range, and specification? If yes then here is the complete detail on the BMW i5 M60 xDrive where we covered all the most necessary information. A new BMW 5 series is always a pretty big deal the new G60 iteration is probably the biggest revolution in the model's 50-year history. With Australian details now confirmed, here's a quick rundown on everything you need to know about his new luxury sedan.

You can still buy a petrol 5 series but for the time being at least only as a biased model 520i the other two variants the i5 e drive and i5 M60 xDrive will focus on here are purely electric pricing starts at $1,15,000 plus road costs for the 520i you'll need an extra 100 grand to get behind the wheel for the i5 M60 BMW is happy to scratch the boundaries of design when it comes to more niche products like the XM. But it's not been quite so brave with its traditional models that said there's still plenty to talk about the new 5 series has grown in all dimensions compared to its predecessor. And it is now virtually identical in size so the e65 7 series at the front may be pleased to see the new 5 hasn't adopted the massive vertical nostrils of the i4 M3 i7 etc.

Exterior Design

The grill is outlined by a contour lighting matrix LED headlights are standard and all Australian cars include the M sport package for a more athletic look the G60 is also more muscular with the deeper side skirts in contrasting black and the rising slash across the Bodywork. While the door handles are now flush to Aid Aero efficiency it's at the rear though where the most significant changes have been made the shallower screen and tapered mirror end giving it almost.

A couple look power is supplied by an 84KW battery capacity with a motor at each end combining for a massive 442 kilowatts and 820-newton meters. BMW i5 M60 xDrive has an acceleration of 0-100 and is claimed to take just 3.7 seconds. And has an i5 M60 with a top speed of 230 miles when it comes to cornering there are adaptive M suspension active anti-roll bars. All-wheel steering along with 21-inch wheels but then the i5 M60 needs all the help it can get as it weighs more than 2.3 tonnes the new 5 series takes plenty of inspiration from the interior of the BMW i7 including what BMW calls the interaction bar essentially giant strip of ambient lighting that also hides the air vents.

More about Exterior Design and Looks

The hood is also what you expect to see now on the new BMWs its very aggressive in the styling of course you got these creases running across as you can see a couple coming through the side and of course the central crease that you've seen on some other new BMWs as well if you look a little bit from the side maybe you can see a more of a slanted nose. So, it's got this a little bit of shark nose typical to BMW cars you can see it right here from that angle just a little bit slanted enough to give the vehicle some really nice road presence there are no more laser lights so you are getting the LED lights right there but of course, it does come with those blue graphics inside.

And that's only for styling purposes of course speaking of the headlights they're new as you can see they're quite slick in size they wrap around the front end quite a bit and of course, you have these two inner graphics which you might have seen on some of the new models like the X1.
